LMCS students participate in Battle of the Books Competition

On Thursday, April 8, Kenlie Greenfield, Emily Charlson, Jaselyn Islas, Addy Sletten, Aiden Reese, and Tori Holtan participated in the annual Central Rivers AEA Battle of the Books Competition and placed 10th out of 30 teams. These Lake Mills Elementary students read 20 books and then they worked together as a team to answer questions based around the books.

On Friday, April 9, Cora Sauer, Josephine Islas, and Tori Sterrenberg participated in the Central Rivers AEA Battle of the Books competition representing the Lake Mills Middle School. These students read 15 books and they placed fifth out of 24 teams. They were also able to work together as a team to answer the questions on the tests.

Due to COVID, both competitions were held virtually over Zoom. Both groups got to hear a presentation from author, Terry Lynn Johnson, and were able to ask her questions as well. Johnson is from Ontario, Canada and writes fiction books for children about bobsled racing. Marie Menke served as the coach for both teams.

This was the first year students from Lake Mills have participated in this contest.

Menke commented, “There were many students who worked very hard to read and prepare for the competition last year and then it never happened due to school shutting down. I was so happy these students were able to actually compete this year. Being that this was our first year of participating in the contest, we really didn’t know what to expect. But the teams did great. All of the students worked super hard to prepare for this ‘Battle’ and their hard work paid off.”

Each team member will receive a certificate from Central Rivers AEA acknowledging their team’s placement. Menke reports that the students have already started to look at the list of books that will be included in the battle next year and can’t wait to start reading.

Creative Mother’s Day celebration ideas

On Sunday, May 9, 2021, millions of people will celebrate the special women in their lives, particularly the mothers, grandmothers and stepmothers who often tirelessly care for those they love.

Created by Anna Jarvis in the early 20th century and designated an official United States holiday in 1914, Mother’s Day is a special day in many families. Apart from birthdays, primary female caregivers may not always get the recognition they deserve, nor be entitled to a day to kick back and relax and let others take the helm. Mother’s Day entitles them to something special.

Even though the way people have been living has changed during the COVID-19 pandemic, Mother’s Day may be the first holiday on the calendar when the world can finally regain some sense of normalcy. But caution should still prevail during Mother’s Day celebrations. Thankfully, there are plenty of creative ways to celebrate mothers and mother figures this year.

- Dine truly “al fresco.” Outdoor dining has become commonplace, and even before it was a safety measure, enjoying a meal on a sun-soaked patio or overlooking a body of water was popular. If you’re worried about limited restaurant space or crowds, plan a picnic at a scenic location, such as a botanical garden or county park. Include Mom’s favorite foods and enjoy the fresh air and delicious foods together.
- Create a photo slideshow. Digital photos have eclipsed prints in many people’s hearts. But too often digital photos never get seen after they’re initially taken. That can change when you compile a slideshow of favorite photos from childhood and even present-day photos that Mom is sure to appreciate. Use sentimental music or Mom’s favorite songs as the soundtrack, and include some inspirational quotations or personal voiceovers. This is one gift that can be shared in person or over group meeting apps.

- Get involved together. An especially meaningful way to honor a mother who is always giving her time and love is to become involved in a difference-making organization. Joint volunteerism is a great way to spend more time together working toward a worthy goal.

- Enjoy her hobbies and interests. Devote a day or more to trying Mom’s interests and hobbies, whether they include hitting the links, knitting, singing in the church choir, or digging in her garden.

- Send an edible gift. If you can’t be there to celebrate with Mom in person, have a special meal delivered to her door. Then enjoy the same foods with her via Google Meet, Facetime or Zoom. Don’t forget a tasty cocktail so you can toast the special woman in your life.

Mother’s Day celebrations can be unique, heartfelt and customized based on family needs.

Building community pride—Part 2

BY BONNIE KAY BALDWIN
LAKE MILLS GRAPHIC

In Part 1 (last week) of “Lake Mills—Building Community Pride” the Graphic focused on the first eight projects the LM Park and Rec. Dept. have in the works. In today’s paper, Part 2 will focus on the last two projects—improving the skate park, and building a mini golf course.

Project nine is to have the skate park equipment painted. Amy Vrieze and Justin Byars, have enlisted LMHS art instructor, Brook Christianson, to draw up the graffiti or street art designs that her art classes will be painting on the sides of the halfpipe and other pieces of equipment.

The classes are called Advanced Studio, and Painting. Students included in beautifying the LM skate park are Caelin Barbour, Kit Byars, Lexi Dean, Kylie Greenfield, Annabella Jensen, Samantha Leibeg, Dashawn Linnen, Weston Menuey, Shae

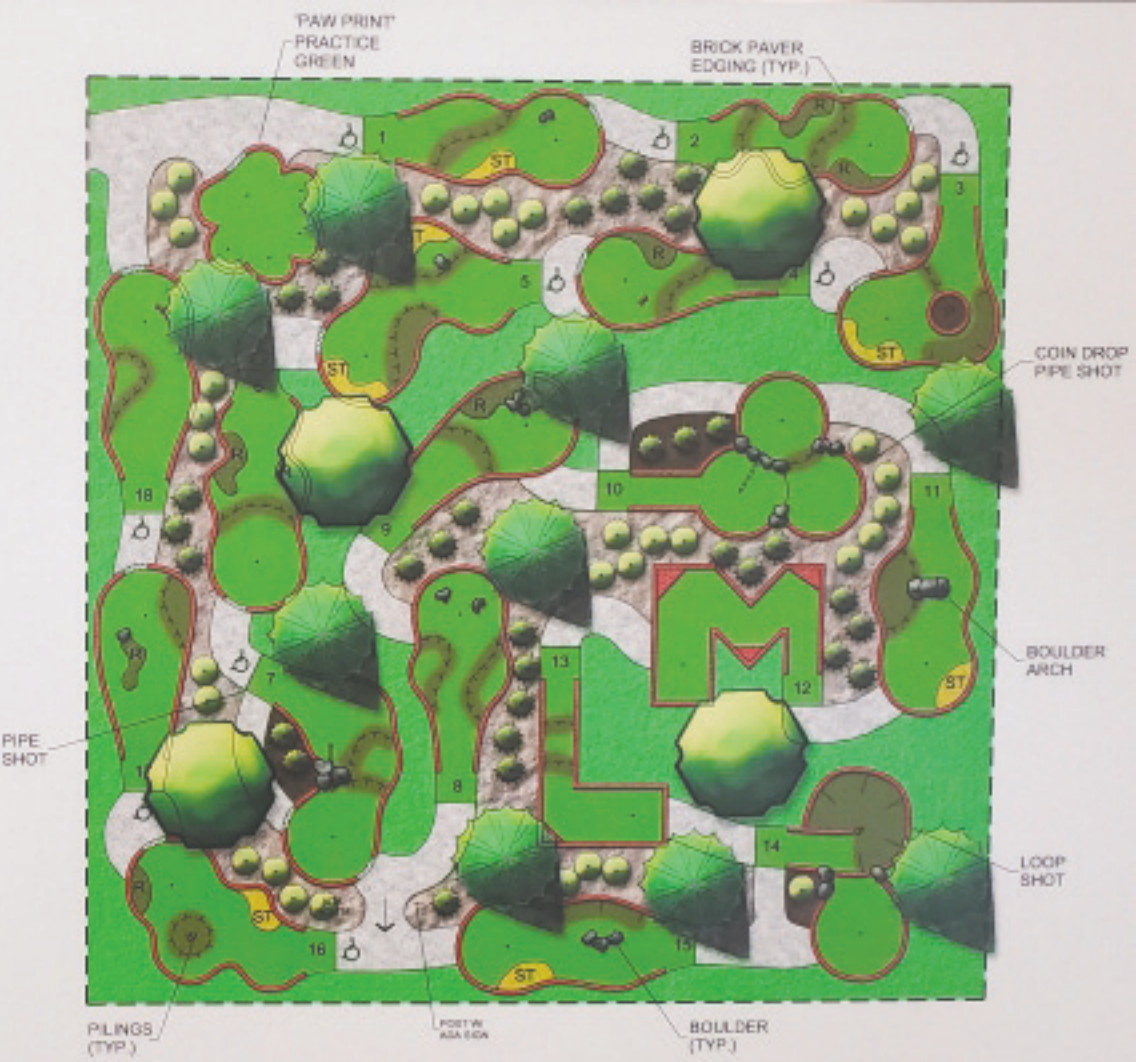

The miniature golf course will be built in Band Shell Park (above). The design plan is pictured below.

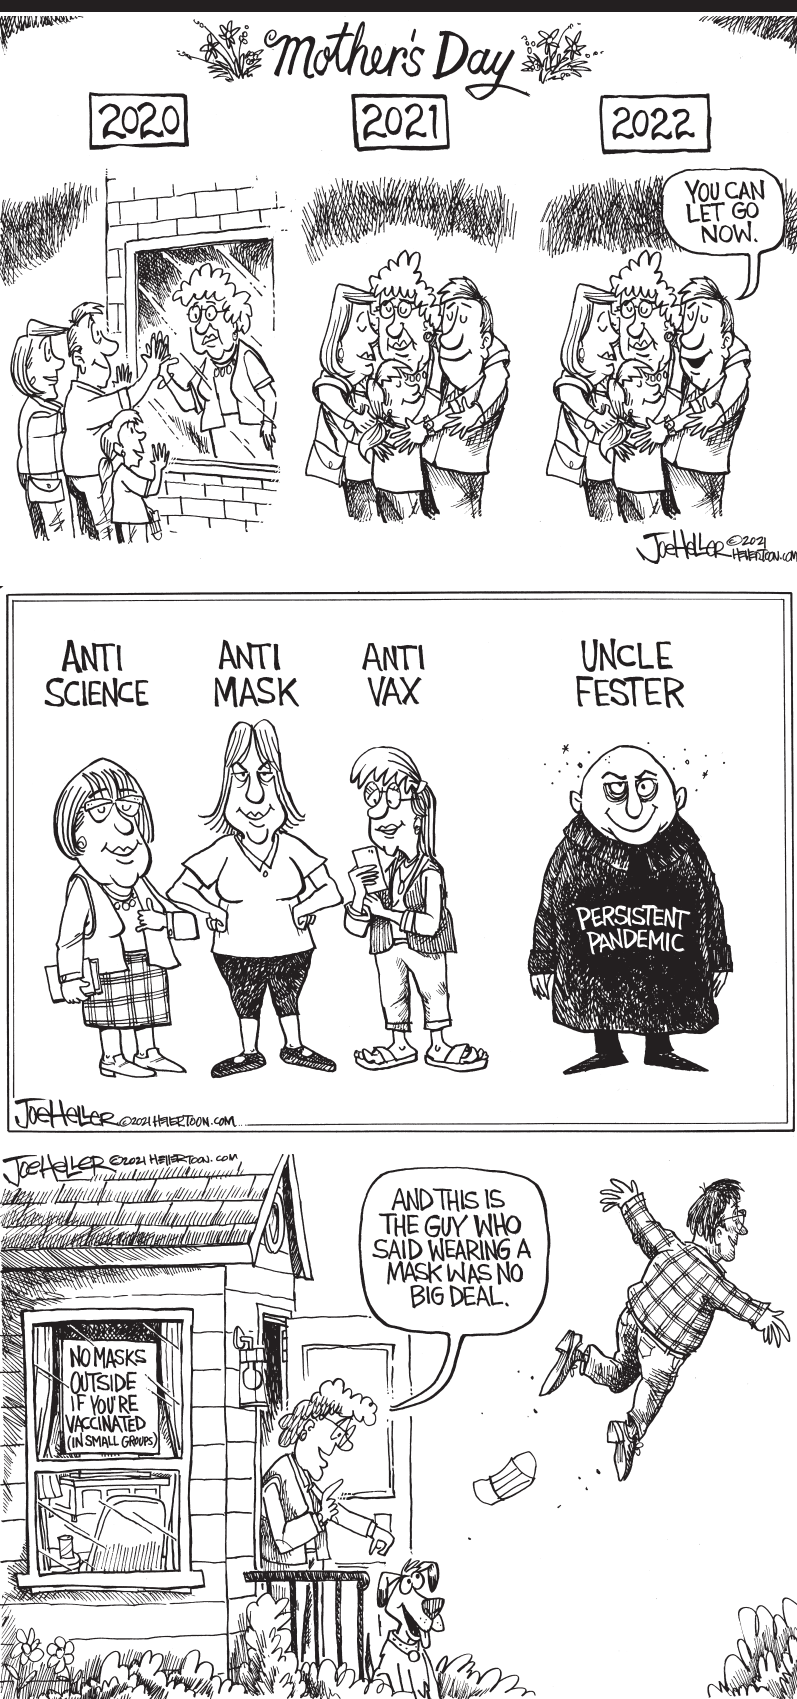

Peterson, and Cirley Ramirez.

So far, due to the weather, they have only been able to add the base coat, a bright yellow, to the sides. The designs will be traced on a clear, dry night after dark, using a projector. The colors are all bright, in these eye-popping designs.

“The designs are colorful, showy, and have a lot of Lake Mills in them. They scream civic pride,” said Vrieze. “The kids who are out there, are dedicated and spend a lot of time out there . . . a place they can be proud of. We have to resurface the area on one piece, because last year’s materials we used, didn’t hold up like we had hoped.” Byars added, “But after we had completed that phase, we saw less littering. Our kids are

National efforts to ban wind energy in Iowa are instead banning Iowa landowner rights

BY RAY GAESSER, CHAIR
IOWA CONSERVATIVE ENERGY FORUM

Iowa has been a national leader in renewable energy for decades thanks to early vision by leaders like Governor Terry Branstad and Senator Chuck Grassley. By early diversification of our state's energy portfolio, we have kept energy rates well below the national average and been able to attract and retain companies and workers in Iowa.

This success is set to grow with the proposed Worthwhile Wind Project, which could provide more than $200,000 of annual revenue to the Lake Mills Community School District once completed.

However, Iowa's renewable energy leadership has made our state a target for national efforts to kill wind and solar development. Under the guise of local messengers, we have seen the same anti-wind talking points pop-up across the country and the same misinformation spreading online.

These anti-renewable energy organizations have popped up in Worth and Winnebago Counties, Adams County (my home county), Madison County, Taylor County, Page County, and many more. The groups are operating from the same playbook featuring frequent meetings, organized structure, and using shared materials from national web sources that originate thousands of miles from the state of Iowa.

As chair of the Iowa Conservative Energy Forum (ICEF) and a farmer myself, I hope to be a middle ground and commonsense voice to make sure we are looking out for Iowa farmers and landowners before national interest groups. I caution all my colleagues and friends in rural Iowa to understand these efforts to ban renewable energy development by organizations claiming to protect home rule, are in fact banning the rights closest to your home—your land rights.

Our goal at ICEF is to be the local ally of landowners who look to find common ground and to provide facts and figures free of online hysteria. We need to fight back against organizations and their local messengers that promote a national agenda that claims to protect property rights and fight against eminent domain. In reality, these groups are creating eminent domain policies of their own by not enabling landowners to make their own decisions about development on their own land.

We hope Worth and Winnebago counties can keep landowners in the driver's seat and preserve their freedom to choose. Wind energy has become an important cash crop for farmers, providing a consistent revenue stream that helps hedge against fluctuating commodity prices. More than $70 million paid annually to Iowa farms has been more important than ever during the COVID-19 pandemic.

It is important to remember that the vocal minority does not represent the majority opinion in rural Iowa. Even though I opted against wind turbines on my land (which was my choice, not a government ban), my neighbors have wind turbines and I view them as a source of pride and innovation for our community.

Winnebago and Worth Counties have already realized economic benefits from wind energy and can build upon this success if the county observes common sense policies for all citizens.

I encourage county leaders to analyze all sides of the conversation, and to research the anti-wind propaganda and its sources. By continuing to harness the natural resources of our Iowa farmland, including wind, we can ensure Iowans will benefit for generations to come.

Ray Gaesser is the chair of the Iowa Conservative Energy Forum and the former president of the American Soybean Association and the Iowa Soybean Association.

Inside the House House: Session goes to OT

The 2020 legislative session was supposed to adjourn on April 30, but we'll be heading into overtime next week instead.

Given the challenges we've all faced over the last year during the pandemic, it was imperative for lawmakers to take extra time to make sure our recovery and relief efforts reach Iowans and small businesses needing it most.

When session began back in January, Iowa House Democrats started work on our COVID recovery package for Iowans, called Build Back Iowa. It's a bold relief package designed to help families, small businesses, students, and our dedicated health care workers get through this pandemic and get life back to normal.

We crafted the plan because pandemic recovery isn't a partisan issue and we were prepared to work across the aisle with Republicans to get it signed into law.

Unfortunately, that isn't the case so far. Instead of working together to help Iowans get back on their feet, the Governor and GOP leaders in the Legislature are focused on partisan issues like diverting public school dollars to unaccountable charter schools and punishing workers who lose their job at no fault of their own.

Just this week, we also learned that the Governor rejected $95 million in federal aid to help Iowa schools keep teachers, students, and staff safe in the classroom during the pandemic.

It's the exact opposite of what should be done in the closing days of the session.

The good news is that there's still time before adjournment to take action and help Iowans turn the page on this pandemic.

We should provide additional support to help small businesses make up for COVID losses. We must invest more to address Iowa's child care crisis. We should be doing more to keep families in their homes and kids safe in school.

As pressure builds to wrap up the session, I hope the Governor and GOP lawmakers don't miss the opportunity to do the right thing—put politics aside and focus on recovery and relief.

Feel free to contact me with your ideas by email (todd.prichard@legis.iowa.gov), phone (515-281-3054), or through social media (Twitter: @RepPrichard; Facebook: Todd.Prichard.Iowa). I look forward to hearing from you.

A Mother's Day gift we must deliver

BY STEVE CORBIN,
EMERITUS PROFESSOR OF MARKETING
UNIVERSITY OF NORTHERN IOWA

Only America and 49 other countries—out of 187—celebrate Mother's Day. Besides relatives showering women with cards, flowers and gifts, there is a long overdue action we must deliver to females.

In a letter dated March 31, 1776, the eventual First Lady Abigail Adams told her husband John Adams (ensuing second president of the United States), as he and other men set off to form the new American democracy: "Remember, John, . . . if particular care and attention is not paid to the ladies, we . . . will not hold ourselves bound by any laws in which we have no voice or representation."

Research is replete. Our esteemed Founding Fathers had absolutely no intention of giving women a voice in public affairs.

It took 144 years of public disdain, imprisonment, marches and perseverance before women were permitted to vote (19th Amendment, 1920). How did that occur?

President Woodrow Wilson (1913-1921) was against giving women the right to vote until World War I broke out and he witnessed women voluntarily stepping up to the plate to help fight the war. Wilson stated "we have made partners of the women in this war" and supported passage of the 19th Amendment.

Let's examine how far behind we are for equal rights between genders.

Only 10 nations out of 187 countries in the world offer the same legal rights to working women as men: Belgium, Canada, Denmark, France, Iceland, Ireland, Latvia, Luxembourg, Portugal and Sweden (2021 World Bank Study). Passage of the Equal Rights Amendment (S.J. Res. 1) that's before the U.S. Senate would resolve this legal rights issue in America.

The ERA was first introduced in Congress in 1923. In 1972, Charles Grassley (Rep.-New Hartford), then in the Iowa House of Representatives, voted yes on the ERA helping to make Iowa the fourth state to ratify the ERA. Later he told a Des Moines Register reporter that if he were not running for public office, he would have voted against the ERA.

Despite Grassley's reluctant yea vote in the Iowa House 49 years ago, his support in D.C. is uncertain. Perplexing, isn't it?

I guess we have to shower Grassley and other elected officials (83 percent are men)—not with cards, flowers and gifts—but with facts. A must read article for those who believe in a patriarchal society governed by men appears in marieclaire.com (Apr. 27), titled "23 ways women still aren't equal to men."

Research conducted by the Iowa Women's Leadership Project reports that Iowa women earn 77 percent of men's salary. If women make less money than men, it stands to reason retired women are twice as likely as retired men to live in poverty (CNBC, Mar. 19, 2019).

Nearly 39 percent of Iowa households (85,000) are headed by women who do not earn enough to support their basic living expenses. Income inequality in Iowa is not a myth or folklore, it's a real issue.

Despite the Department of Health and Human Services issuing a ruling in 2013 prohibiting discrimination in health insurance and healthcare, women pay more (~$1,500/year) for health insurance and receive less healthcare usage due to costs (Journal of American Medical Association).

For this Mother's Day, give a gift to the loved females in your family by requesting GOP Senators Grassley and Joni Ernst to vote yes on S.J. Res. 1 (ERA), which will rectify male-female legal rights disparities. We'll deal with other parity issues down-the-road.

Like the 72 year fight to bring the 19th Amendment and women's right to vote to fruition, passage of the ERA—98 years after it was introduced in Congress—would be a giant step forward for gender equality . . . a gift long overdue.

Get Away from "Good Enough"

When it comes to policies, global or local, the present should never be considered the end goal. Every policy put in place by any political power should always contribute to the betterment of the future—the future of the planet and the future of its populace.

Seems like a logical notion, right? However, politics does not work that way. Whatever suits those that have the power to make decisions at any given time, is where the goal mark is set, and thus, no footholds are put in place for the future, as we stagnate in the present to suit the desires of a few, while ignoring the needs of the many.

It is beyond mere frustration to continue having to write about COVID and the pandemic, but while many are at the point that they feel they can put the past year behind them, the reality is, that we've made very little progress in combating COVID.

Within our own borders, sought-after vaccines are going to waste, being sent back, as other parts of the world suffer. Patents and profits should never be the focus of healthcare, especially during a pandemic a year-and-a-half in.

Some have inquired as to whether I will make travel plans now that I have received both vaccines myself. It is disheartening to tell them that I can't. South Africa is receiving no international travel due to the variant that is present there. The current vaccines on the market have a significantly lessened effectiveness against such variants, rendering them almost obsolete in such areas.

A year later, and I still have no clear date set for when I can be reunited with my sweetheart.

Patents prevent distribution to countries in need, and marketing them as the only viable options, limits the need to research vaccines that could combat variants more effectively. If the patents aren't broken, and huge portions of the world are left unvaccinated, newer, more dangerous variants will emerge and overwhelm the "developed world," too.

Our efforts into funding more effective vaccines, and our dedication to making them freely available to everyone, worldwide, should be the only priority we have when it comes to ending the pandemic. The present efforts—if they can rightly be termed as such—are not good enough.

"Good enough" should NEVER be part of policy. The complacency many seem to feel as their friends and family receive their vaccines, is understandable, but dangerous.

As countries such as India suffer and call for aid, we celebrate and pat ourselves on the back for an increasingly stalled response and stagnating vaccination campaign.

This isn't to suggest that personal triumphs and relief are not appropriate, this is a reminder, that while we begin to see more of the people we missed for the past year, this small progress could crumble if we do not continue to pursue advancement in global health.

A virus that "began" in China, managed to overtake every part of the globe in less than three months. None of us are infallible, and we really are all in this together.

This will never be over if we continue to prioritize profiting from the pandemic, over healing from it.

There are countless ways that capitalism kills, and this is just one more on the list.

Make it okay to talk about mental illness in the workplace

BY KARL KURT, ASSISTANT
CHIEF ADMINISTRATOR
CENTRAL RIVERS AEA

May is Mental Health Awareness month and an important time to reflect on the critical role that employers play in the wellbeing of Iowans. It's estimated that one in five Iowans suffer from some kind of mental illness in a given year. Left untreated, the result can be devastating to the individual's health and the overall productivity of the organization. This can happen when people feel too ashamed to admit they are struggling and seek help.

Now, more than ever before, many of us could be feeling increased anxiety, stress or loneliness following a year of living with the challenges created by the COVID-19 pandemic. It is okay to not be okay right now. Mental Health Awareness Month serves as a great opportunity for our community to begin eliminating stigma by starting conversations and increasing understanding about mental illness—beginning with employers. By breaking down the stigma around mental illness, we can support those who are struggling to find the resources and treatment they deserve.

I encourage all leaders to "make it okay" to talk about mental illness in their organization. Leading a culture that celebrates courage and vulnerability will provide needed safety and support for individual staff members and will ultimately pay dividends to the bottom line.

Sixty-two bikers lined up in front of the school Saturday to start on a 20-mile ride to raise money for the mentally-handicapped. Area residents had pledged to pay a certain amount per mile ridden by the individual riders and the money will be used for activities and recreation projects for the mentally-handicapped in the county.

John Martin, of this city, had an experience last week while visiting his son at St. Paul, that he will not care to repeat soon, and under the circumstances was about the only way possible to master the situation. Mr. Martin went to St. Paul Friday to spend a few days with his son, George, who is shipping clerk at one of the big wholesale hardware houses in that city. Saturday night about 10 p.m. after visiting the New Comet theatre, Mr. Martin and son walked eastward, when near Wacouta street four thugs jumped from beside a building and attacked George. The son was being overpowered when the father interfered. After failing in his attempt to separate them, Mr. Martin pulled his jackknife and stabbed the stranger in his right side, and put him out of commission as far as further fight was concerned. Police brought the ambulance and had the highwayman taken to the hospital. The stranger gave his name as Kanakes. Mr. Martin was taken to the police station but was released after the true situation was known. Mr. Martin did not use violence until he found he could not master the highwaymen otherwise. The other three ruffians escaped.

Lake Mills car dealers are still at a loss to give any definite answer to "When will cars be available?" Only 11 passenger automobiles have been delivered in Lake Mills since Jan. 1, a Graphic reporter learned today upon interviewing each of the three established dealers, Kingland Motor Company, Twito Chevrolet company, and W.S. Grotewold. Mr. Kingland stated that the Ford Motor company plant is working about three days a week and that the coal tie-up is likely to reduce this output. Mr. Grotewold, likewise, pointed to the coal strike as a reason for slow production on Chrysler and Plymouth cars and states that it will possibly be another six months before any appreciable number of cars are received.

Mr. ad Mrs. Kenneth Johnson received word from their daughter and son-in-law, Lt. Col. and Mrs. Frederick Heimstra, who are stationed in Hawaii, that they had escaped the recent Tidal Wave and were all well, but the destruction around them was terrible to see. Lt. Col. Heimstra is in the medical air corps and is in charge of a hospital on Hickam Field. Mrs. Heimstra will be remembered here as the former Thelma Gullickson. They have two small sons, Frederick and Richard.

Jennie Groth, formerly an operator at the Lake Mills Telephone company, writes the Graphic to change her address from Beloit, Wis., to Stoughton, Wis. She states, "We have bought the Home Bakery at Stoughton and are opening for business Saturday. If you happen up this way, look us up. We are next to the Badger Theatre and across the street from the post office."

A one-car accident eight miles south of Lake Mills on the Rice Lake road at 7:25 Monday evening claimed the life of a 17-year-old boy and hospitalized another. Emilio G. Rodriguez of Forest City was killed instantly when the car in which he was riding left the road and struck a tree. The driver of the vehicle, Ernest W. Henning Jr., 20, Fertile, is being treated for a neck injury at the Forest City Hospital. The two young men had borrowed the car from a friend, Peter Watson, Wilmette, Ill., a student at Waldorf College, earlier Monday afternoon. They were reportedly heading for Lake Mills when the accident happened. As they approached the intersection just south of the Emmet Suby farm home, Henning lost control of the car and it careened across the road and onto the front lawn of the Suby home, striking a large tree roadside. Neither was thrown from the vehicle as it bounced off the tree. Witnesses assisted Henning

The LMHS girls' track and field team competed on their home field last Monday, April 26, as they hosted the Bulldog Girls Relays. The team set a number of personal records in relay and individual events, and took seventh place overall out of the 13 teams competing that day.

"We had a beautiful day, with some of the best competition in our area and the state," commented Head Coach Skyler Ahrens. "As we move forward we will really begin to focus on putting the girls in the best position to be as successful as they can for the conference meet."

The major highlight of the meet was the 4x200 relay team of Josie Helgeson, Ella Stene, Haley Droessler, and Taylor Ingledue, dropping nearly two seconds of their previous best time to finish the event in 1:54.40 to take second place.

out of the vehicle. Rodriguez died from a broken neck according to the county medical examiner.

Almost 50 people braved the cold, wet morning to weigh-in on Saturday for the kick-off of the Faith and Fitness Community Challenge. The total weight at check-in totalled 9,916 pounds.

In the 800 sprint medley, the competitors (Helgeson, Droessler, Stene, and Taylor Vanek) dropped four seconds off their time to place 4th after finishing in 2:01.65. The 4x100 relay team (Helgeson, Stene, Droessler, Ingledue) finished with a season best time of 53.98 and took fifth place. Sydnee Lindeman, Kit Byars, Allison Rygh, and Kyla Johanson raced in the 4x800 relay and took fourth place with a time of 12:16.49.

In the individual events, Ella Stene finished the 100 hurdles in under 17 seconds (16.44) to take second place.

In the open 400, freshman Taylor Vanek and Alexis Anderson took sixth and eighth place, respectively, after finishing with times of 1:10.54 and 1:11.63.

The Bulldogs finished the meet with a combined 49 points.

Girls @ Forest City

The competition was fierce at the relays hosted by Forest City last Tuesday, April 27, as the girls faced off against 11 other teams from around the area. The Bulldogs were only able to secure a top five finish in a single event, the 4x800m relay, and ended the competition with an accumulated 44 points total to take 10th place out of 12.

Taylor Ingledue finished the 100m dash in 13.65, just .01 behind her closest competitor, narrowly missing a top five finish and taking 6th place in the event.

In the 400m hurdles, Karli Helgeson finished with a time of 1:30.70 to take 10th place.

The top finish for the Bulldogs during the meet was in the 4x800m relay, where the team placed fourth with a time of 12:11.32. Lake Mills 1600 medley relay team placed ninth after finishing the event in 5:32.03.

Girls @ Jim Bayse Relays

The girls traveled to Hampton-Dumont-CAL to compete in the Jim Bayse Relays. The Bulldogs finished the competition in sixth place overall out of the nine teams taking part in the events.

The most notable highlight of the Relays for the Bulldogs was Ella Stene, who took first place in the 100m hurdles with a time of 16.44.

Kylie Greenfield took third place in the shot put event, with a throw of 32' 9.5". Also securing a third place finish was Kit Byars in the discus, with a throw of 95' 3".

Boys @ Cardinal Relays

The LMHS boys track and field team traveled to Garner-Hayfield-Ventura to participate in the Cardinal Relays last Tuesday, April 27, and finished the competition with a total of 62 points to take sixth place overall out of the 11 teams competing at the meet.

The Postscript

"Still Nagging"

It is a well-known fact that we are allowed to chew out the people we care about. Most recently, this came to mind when I gave my old friend, Andrew, a serious tongue-lashing.

Andrew is a lifelong bachelor, and a committed curmudgeon. He is better than most curmudgeons at being curmudgeonly, because he started young. Andrew showed signs of being a grumpy old man when he was still in his 30s. But Andrew is not longer in his 30s, and this is what brought us to our recent conflict.

Andrew is not taking care of himself. He would argue this is not true, of course. He would say that he lives a healthy life and even eats vegetables on occasion. He rides his stationary bicycle on a nearly daily basis, and he has no bad habits—which is probably true, except for the bad habit of ignoring the advice of his dearest and most concerned friend.

My problem with Andrew is that, like a lot of men, he does not go to the doctor. I'm betting every woman reading this right now is clucking her tongue in unison. I rarely make sexist generalizations, but I have observed that women seem to take the whole "going to the doctor before there's anything wrong" thing a lot more seriously than men do, unless there's a woman nudging the man in the ribs. This brings us back to Andrew.

Andrew knows he's supposed to see a doctor. He also knows he's overdue for a colonoscopy, which he is not looking forward to, and so he dawdles and, eventually, he puts it out of mind completely—until I remind him.

"You haven't had a doctor's appointment yet?" I ask, accusingly.

"I've been busy," he says. This is true. He has been busy lately, as he is a tax preparer and tax preparers are madly busy for about three months of the year. The rest of the year, however, he has been dawdling.

"So, have you had your annual exam yet?" I asked again, after he had a chance to rest up for at least two-and-a-half days. He did not answer.

I told Andrew if he died early

Carrie Classon
The Postscript

of something preventable, I was going to give his eulogy and say, "He was an idiot and he got what he deserved!" and sit down. I wouldn't really do this. But I feel like it every time I hear he still hasn't gone to the doctor.

Andrew will tell that you he is extraordinarily healthy. Logically, he knows this is no reason not to have a medical exam, but he will cite the fact that he has never had a cavity as evidence of his better-than-average health. There are no reputable studies linking an absence of cavities to immortality, that I am aware of, but Andrew clings to the conviction that he is not like the rest of us cavity-riddled mortals.

I checked my email to see if Andrew had written this morning. He has not. This means one of three things: He is still mad at me, he has not yet scheduled an appointment, or he is mad at me and has not scheduled an appointment.

But I am still nagging him.

I don't care if he is angry with me, because I don't think he has anyone else nagging him to take care of himself, and I care about Andrew very much.

A person doesn't get more than one friend like Andrew in their life. I've got to do everything I can to keep him around, complaining as long as possible.

Till next time,

Carrie

Confirmation held at Emmons Lutheran Church

Esta D'Ann Reyerson May 28, 1952 – April 28, 2021

Esta D'Ann Reyerson, 67, Northwood, passed away, Wednesday, April 28, 2021, at Mayo Clinic Hospital, Methodist Campus, Rochester, Minn. Funeral services will be held at 2 p.m. Thursday, May 6, at Silver Lake Lutheran Church, Northwood, with Rev. Randy Baldwin officiating. Inurnment will be at Silver Lake Cemetery at a later date. Visitation will be held from 5-7 p.m. Wednesday, May 5, at Conner Colonial Chapel, Northwood. Family suggests memorial contributions to the Silver Lake Cemetery.

Esta was born May 28, 1952, the daughter of Harold and Dorothy Weiland, in Britt. She married Truman Hengesteg in 1973 in Britt, and to that union three children were born: Hans, RaChael, and Kallie. She later married Dennis Reyerson, June 15, 2013, at Silver Lake Lutheran Church.

A graduate of Britt High School, class of 1970, Esta attended Iowa School of Beauty and worked as a hairdresser for many years in Wyoming and Northwood. Prior to having a shop on Main St. in Northwood, she ran her shop in the basement of her home. Following her career as a hairdresser, she worked for Demro Orthodontics (North Iowa Orthodontics) in Mason City for nearly 21 years; retiring in 2018.

Esta was a member of Silver Lake Lutheran Church and the Aristocrats Car Club, Northwood. She enjoyed completing crafts and attending all of her grandchildren's activities including: basketball games, track meets and baseball games. She also spent several hours helping manage the band, Stone Soup, and organize many practices and gigs.

Esta is survived by her husband, Dennis Reyerson; children: Hans (special friend, Krissey) Hengesteg, RaChael (Kent) Hanna, Kallie (Cory) Christian; stepchildren: Jason (Sarah) Reyerson, Diane (Matt) Frank and David (Jessica) Reyerson; grandchildren: Trevor, Garrett, Gage, McKenzie, Tyler, Morgan and Landyn; step-grandchildren: Grace, Ethan, Chloe, Jayden, Jaxon and Mikayla; great-granddaughter, Sophie; and brothers: Darrell (Jeanene) and Larry Weiland.

She was preceded in death by her parents; and sister-in-law, Terrie Weiland.

Darlene J. Langfald June 4, 1928 – April 27, 2021

Darlene J. Langfald, 92, formerly of Emmons, Minn., passed away Tuesday, April 27, 2021 at the Good Samaritan Society, Albert Lea, Minn. A memorial service was held Saturday, May 1, at Center Evangelical Lutheran Church, rural Leland, with Pastor Joshua Skogen officiating. Burial was held in Center Evangelical Lutheran Church Cemetery.

Darlene June (Smith) Langfald was born June 4, 1928 in rural Thompson, to parents, Bruce Sr. and Martha (Doege) Smith. Darlene attended and graduated from Scarville High School in 1945 and attended Waldorf College, Forest City.

On March 7, 1948, Darlene was married to Grant A. Langfald at Scarville.

Faith, family, friends, farming and food were all important parts of Darlene's life. She was proud to be a lifelong member of Center Evangelical Lutheran Church and would attend Sunday services, driving from Emmons, until her health prevented her from driving.

Darlene's family, especially her grandchildren and great-grandchildren, were lucky to have such a devoted Grandma. Through the years, she loved to attend their school and church events, and more recently, she enjoyed their visits and phone calls. And outings with her sister, Marjorie, were much anticipated.

Friendships were cherished and nurtured by Darlene. Friends from Emmons, Center Church, and most recently from Good Samaritan assisted living meant so much to Darlene. Sharing a cup of coffee and a card game with good friends was always more fun than being alone.

Darlene was a dedicated farm wife. She knew what it took to help and support Grant and their hired men—food. Feeding the crew was a job, just like the farming itself, and Darlene took it all in stride. She made many meals each day, delivering them to the fields where the men were working. She also loved her flower gardens and bird watching. Most recently, she would spend time on Mike and Lynne's patio, enjoying the outdoors, watching the birds in the feeders and tending to Lynne's flowers. Darlene would help freeze corn, and Lynne taught Darlene how to make lefse. There are so many wonderful memories to cherish.

She is survived by her son and daughter-in-law, Mike and Lynne Langfald, Emmons, Minn.; two grandchildren: Jennifer (Kenny) Schueller, Scales Mound, Ill.; and Carl (Alyssa) Langfald, Emmons, Minn.; six great-grandchildren: Addison, Grant and Laney Fjelstad and Camilla, Sadie and Hank Langfald; a sister, Marjorie Dann; brother, Donald (Janice) Smith; and a sister-in-law, Donnabelle Smith. Darlene also had many nieces and nephews, cousins and friends.

Pastor's Corner

PASTOR JOSH SKOGEN

Scarville/Center Lutheran Synod Church

Paul wrote in his letter to the Ephesians that God would have believers grow to maturity in the knowledge of the Son of God in order that "we should no longer be children, tossed to and fro and carried about with every wind of doctrine, by the trickery of men, in the cunning craftiness of deceitful plotting" (4:13-14).

I once heard, that those whose job it was to spot counterfeit money were trained to do so, not by studying a multitude of counterfeits, but by thoroughly studying the real money. They know the characteristics of the real currency so well, that they would be able to spot any deviation.

This illustrates well what we ought to do with God's Word. We should read it, study it, and take it to heart, in order that we may know it so well, that we can spot any deviation from its truth. Like a sheep knows well it's shepherd's voice (John 10), so also we who believe in Christ should grow in the knowledge of Scripture, that we may be able to recognize any counterfeit voices which threaten our faith.

There is no shortage of dangerous false doctrines in the church and philosophies in the world. They are everywhere. You'll find them in false teachers, in bad theological books, from friends, academia, entertainment, social media, and so on. So, in order to be protected from these lies, we need to be firmly planted in the truth of God's Word, and to be aware and able to recognize the lies and deceptions that threaten our faith. God grant this to us, that we may be like the healthy and flourishing tree of Psalm 1, fed, watered, and nourished by the Holy Spirit through the Holy Scripture.

And so with all humility, we each should ask ourselves, "Have any winds of doctrine or trickery of men influenced me?" What do you have to say about the nature of God, about the nature of man, about sin, creation, Jesus, salvation, conversion, faith, the Church, the ministry, the Christian life, heaven, hell, Christ's return and so on? Can you support these beliefs with Scripture? Are they from Scripture, or from something else? Have you unwittingly gotten them from secular philosophies? Are they something you have picked up from false teachers? Did something simply have a nice ring to it, and so you adopted it as your own belief?

Scripture alone is the sure and solid ground of faith. Everything that it says is true. Jesus said of Scripture, "Your Word is truth" (John 17:17). He publicly rose from the dead to confirm that His Word is true.

In the next three weeks of the Pastor's Corner, I will demonstrate how some secular philosophies or worldviews that have permeated the culture are counterfeits of the truth, by comparing them to what God's Word says. The three secular philosophies are materialism, postmodernism, and critical theory. These ideas are deceptive and dangerous.

And so, may God preserve us in the truth of the Word, that our faith may cling to Jesus Christ alone, who, by His sacrificial death and triumphant resurrection, has saved us from sin, death, and hell.

I close with a prayer from one of Martin Luther's hymns, "Defend Thy truth, O God, and stay This evil generation; And from the error of its way Keep Thine own congregation. The wicked everywhere abound And would Thy little flock confound; But Thou art our Salvation."

The LMHS girls' golf team took first place at the triangular meet held at the Bear Creek Golf Course in Forest City last Monday, April 26, with a combined team score of 212. The Bulldogs easily defeated Forest City, who shot a combined 248 strokes. Belmont-Klemme, who was scheduled to compete at the triangular as well, did not show up to compete.

Senior Makenna Hanson golfed a 44 at the meet to secure the medalist spot, while Lindsey Hershey shot a 54 to take runner-up medalist.

Jadyn Hengesteg and Kenna Vanek each finished the course in 57 strokes to tie for third place among individual competitors. Also golfing for the Bulldogs were Madison Levine (61) and Chaelin Barbour (66).

The boys golf team improved their overall season record to 12-0 after taking first place at the meet held last Monday, April 26, at the Bear Creek Golf Course. Though, as Head Coach Lyle Thomson noted, the team had some trouble with the back nine of the course, the Bulldogs were still able to finish the course with a combined stroke count of 170, defeating both Forest City (181) and Belmont-Klemme (203).

Bennett Berger medaled at the meet, after finishing the course in 39 strokes, just two over par. Casey Hanson and Garrett Ham each golfed a 41, with Hanson taking the runner-up medalist spot (determined by handicap hole).

Also golfing for Lake Mills were Peyton Severson (49), Kinser Hanson (51), and Denton Kingland (56).

Girls @ Clear Lake Tournament

Also golfing for the Bulldogs were Lindsey Hershey (111), Jadyn Hengesteg (114), Kenna Vanek (121), Madison Levine (123), and Chaelin Barbour (142).

Rice Lake

On April 27, the boys golf team competed on their home turf at the Rice Lake Country Club for the third time this season, and once again came away with a first place finish. The Bulldogs finished the back nine of the course with a combined stroke count of 152, the fourth best team score in the entire state so far this season, easily defeating both North Union (189) and Garner-Hayfield-Ventura (191). Head Coach Lyle Thomson commented that overall it was a great team effort and "the best round shot since I have been golf coach."

Bennett Berger and Casey Hanson both shot a 35 on the back nine of Rice Lake, to come in one under par overall. Berger was the medalist, with Hanson taking the runner-up spot, which was determined by handicap hole.

Coach Thomson noted the tie between Berger and Hanson was "friendly competition, with Bennett coming out on top this time."

Also golfing for the Bulldogs were Garrett Ham, who shot three over par (38), Denton Kingland (46), Peyton Severson (44), and Kinser Hanson (54).

Lake Mills improved their overall season to 14-0 after this win.

For the second time this season, the girls golf team competed on their home turf at the Rice Lake Country Club, Friday, April 30. The team finished the course with a combined score of 221 to take second place at the meet, coming in behind Bishop-Garrigan (175), while defeating Eagle Grove (244).

The boys also took the course at Rice Lake Country Club last Friday, April 30, and once again came away with a first place finish after completing the course with a combined score of 165. The Bulldogs easily defeated both Bishop Garrigan (180) and Eagle Grove (218) to improve their overall season record to 16-0.
